

Communicative Grammar Game 9

Objective To practice inviting and offering.

Grammar Would you like to (play baseball)?

Yes, please. Would you like (an orange)? No, thank you.

Interaction whole class

Preparation Make copies of Game 9
(1 per student).

Directions

Hand out the game sheets. Ask students to draw three items of food in the first three boxes, and three hobbies or sports in the last three boxes.

Next, review the question used to offer food (Would you like a/an...?) and write it on the board for reference. Do the same with the question used for invitations (Would you like to...?). Drill the questions chorally and individually. Include the replies as well: Yes, please. No, thank you.

Ask students to walk around the room and offer food to their classmates first. Tell them to write the names of the classmates that accept the food on the lines on the right. Monitor and provide help as needed.

When students have finished the first part, ask them to go back to their seats. Then tell them to walk around the room again and this time invite people to do an activity with them. Remind them to write the names of the classmates that accept on the lines on the right. Monitor and provide help as needed.

Finally, write these stem sentences on the board and help students report their answers:

_____ would like a/an _____.

_____ would like to _____ with me.
