I would like to have a walk too because the city has great places with different styles. I wouldn't like to go by car because I can't go inside the buildings and sometimes there's too much traffic. A lot of adults believe that computers are bad for you. They say that you aren't creative when you use computers and you become antisocial. Some adults think that computers are very dangerous for you! Computers are bad for you in some situations: spending too much time on them or forgetting to eat or do your homework. If you feel sad or angry when you turn off the computer, you probably have an addiction. But that's dangerous for anyone, not only for kids. But computers can be good for you. Spend a limited time to meet friends online, read magazine articles, or learn crafts projects!

But remember that a balance of activities is very important: play with your toys, go to the park with your family or play a board game. That way, you can have the best of both worlds!
